PROJECT-TITLE

GIFs That Keep On Giving: An Intermediary Anthology of the Ever-Alive

PROJECT-DESCRIPTION

The abbreviated and elided animated GIF stands for all that is aberrant and buoyant, humdrum and forfeited in the arrhythmia of the Internet's utopian promise. From snapchat stenography and irritant ads to elegiac gallery installations, the loopy logic of this incidental digital format absurdly abides: in emot-iconic ubiquity, inchoate pre-cinematic nostalgia, and our lightly contused contemporary sublime.

The monolithic art-critical conundrums of historical periodization form the backdrop of this project, together with the institutional prerogatives of archival preservation and the lesser grandeur of the Graphics Interchange Format. As instances of 'insuppressible still-life', GIFs serve as the project's methodological anchor and as irreverent catalysts to the ars electronica's encroaching standstill. They are wild pictogrammatic translations of dispassionate technological turmoil within a theory of symptomatic agitation, in which surfaces of signification do not arise, but ripple, in an ever-undulating crisis of resources.
