

21.
–
23.
NOV.
2018

CONFERENCE

TRANSLATION IN MEDICINE. HOW TO DEAL WITH INCOMPATIBLE INFORMATION AND MULTIPLE MEANINGS?

In medicine, translation is a daily practice. Complaints, pain, and suffering have to be expressed in clear messages to the physicians, who draw their diagnosis and subsequent treatment from signs and symptoms. In addition, translation has become the buzzword for introducing latest and sometimes rather difficult results of biomedical research into patient care.

This international conference explores the challenges of translation in medicine. It approaches the problematic of translation from medicine and science studies, philosophy and anthropology.

21.11. / 18¹⁵-20⁰⁰

22.11. / 9³⁰-18³⁰

23.11. / 9³⁰-19⁰⁰

The conference is jointly organized by the IFK in cooperation with the Institute for History of Medicine and Science Studies, University of Lübeck, Germany

CONCEPT: Cornelius Borck (IMGWF, University of Lübeck), Christina Schües (IMGWF, University of Lübeck) and Christoph Rehmann-Sutter (IMGWF, University of Lübeck)

PARTICIPANTS: Hauke Busch (University of Lübeck), Shai Brill (Tel Aviv University), Carlo Caduff (King's College London), Alberto Cambrosio (McGill University, Montreal), Havi Carel (University of Bristol), Jiska Cohen-Mansfield (Tel Aviv University), Erika Dyck (Univ. of Saskatchewan), Monica Greco (Goldsmiths College, University of London), Teodora Manea Hauskeller (University of Exeter), Haim Hazan (Tel Aviv University), Lisa Käll (Stockholm University), Ulrike Kluge (Charité Universitätsmedizin Berlin), Shai Lavi (Tel Aviv University), Staffan Müller-Wille (University of Exeter), Barbara Prainsack (Universität Wien), Christian Schubert (Medical University of Innsbruck), Katrin Solhdju (Université de Mons), Henrik Vogt (NTNU Trondheim), Gail Weiss (George Washington University, Washington, D.C.), Bernhard Wieser (IFZ Graz), Stefan Willer (Institut für deutsche Literatur an der Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin)

UNIVERSITÄT ZU LÜBECK
INSTITUT FÜR MEDIZINGESCHICHTE
UND WISSENSCHAFTSFORSCHUNG

WIEN KULTUR

IFK, Reichsratsstraße 17, 1010 Wien

www.ifk.ac.at